After the Senate gets through maybe the President won't have any more power than King George of England.

Germany was first to begin fighting; first to quit, and first to ratify the Peace Treaty. It doesn't sound right.

POETRY AND THE YOUTH

There was a day when the polite young man of society wrote to his lady only in sonnets and addressed her only in heroic couplets. The youth of the day wrote, talked and dreamed poetry.

But today, ah, today, the young man who acknowledges that he writes verses is straightway put down by young people as a nut. His family laughs at him and advises him to spend his time and thought on something more profitable.

Profit! profit! That is the war-cry of the age. But even this industrial, commercial age cannot take the love of song out of youth.

Youth will always be in love with rhythm and harmony, whether it be the song of an engine or grand opera. And if one is curious and pries tactfully he will be surprised to find how many young men and women have notebooks hidden away where they scribble verse.

They read it, too. They read good poetry. But they hide this activity more carefully than they would if they were reading Diamond Dick. Their age has taught them to be ashamed of sentiment.

As soon as the 2-cent letter came back, the city started after more street letter boxes. Columbia can afford again to become literary.

It's a high time in more than one way the crew of the R-34 is having on its return flight to England. They have with them twenty gallons of American liquor.

IZORA JACKSON AS CITIZEN

Is there a place for Izora Jackson in this community? Is there a place for a convicted bootlegger in any community?

These are questions worth considering.

Here is a negro with a mind far above the average of his race. He has shown ambition and energy of unusual character. True, from all evidence, his ambitions have been directed in the wrong channels. Yet he has ability that could be used in other ways.

Perhaps prohibition will mean new life for men of his type. This negro successfully carries on two other businesses. He was convicted here, but his case has been carried to the Kansas City Court of Appeals.

No doubt he will be fined or imprisoned. After that, why shouldn't he begin over? Running things comes natural to him. He has a wide friendship among his people in Columbia. He is a leader in his race. No doubt he could start anew, forget the liquor traffic, turn his natural traits into new fields, and not be a clever bootlegger, but a valuable citizen and a credit to his community.

Columbia is noted for its beautiful foliage. We all love it (in its place). But after a heavy rain, when we walk down the street and scrape our straw hats in the wet, overhanging branches, we doubt the sincerity of our love for our (untrimmed) foliage.

MARS, A MYSTERY

In the past ten years there has been much discussion concerning the planet Mars. Every method of travel from lightning-speed airships to huge projectiles having bungalow accommodations have been described for amusement and prophecy by writers in the past.

Astronomers have calculated the distance to Mars to be about thirty-five million miles. If a family of pilots undertook the trip in an airship that could resist all natural laws and even travel through a vacuum perhaps one of the great-grandsons would eventually reach the destination. We know from observation that Mars is red in color. And we have been told that the atmosphere is rare and that the surface and weather conditions are similar to the earth's.

It has not been determined yet whether the canals are artificial waterways or phenomena of vegetation caused by some method of irrigation. Many plans have been discussed for communication. Perhaps our Martian friends are troubled by the same problem in regard to us; or perhaps it is the sequestered haven of our departed souls.

Mars was the god of war worshiped at Rome. Our higher civilization does not permit such pagan worship. The emblems of the god were a spear and a shield, which, it was thought, had fallen from heaven, or perhaps they were tokens of greetings sent down by the Martians.

Well, anyway, let us not lose any sleep over this mystery.

CROP PROSPECTS ON DECLINE

Condition 2.4 Above Average for 10 Years—Was 4.7 in May.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, July 12.—The composite condition of all the crops in the United States on July 1 was 2.4 per cent above the 10-year average for that date, as compared with 4.7 per cent above the average on June 1, the Department of Agriculture announced today.

This indicates a decline in the crop prospects during the last month.

This year the total acreage is 2 per cent below the average, according to the statement, as compared with 2.4 per cent last year.

The level of prices paid for products for the principal crops on July 1 was about 13.7 per cent higher than two years ago and 84 per cent higher than the average for the last 10 years.

PLANS 8 GOOD-ROADS PROJECTS IN 14 MONTHS

Surveying, planning and financing eight good-roads projects in fourteen months is the record of W. B. Cauthorn, Columbia civil engineer.

He has just completed plans for the Old Trails Road in Marshall Special District in Saline County except for the bridge over Salt Fork River. The plans will be sent to Washington soon, and the contract let. The Malta Bend District plans were completed a few days ago and will be delivered in a month. With the completion of the work specified in these two contracts, nineteen and one-half miles of road will have been put in good condition.

Plans have been approved by the government for work on the Millersburg road in Callaway County. Construction will begin soon.

Plans have been approved and the money is available for Harg Special District, one of the old Boone County trails, and also for the Columbia District, where construction will begin in a few days. Work has been under way on Midway Special District for some time.

Mr. Cauthorn has completed a reconnaissance of a county-wide system in Polk County that will cost $1,000,000. The specifications will be complete in a few days and Polk County will have an opportunity to vote $300,000 good-roads bonds.

Mr. Cauthorn has made a specialty of good-roads work. He said this morning that plans have been submitted for the hard-surfacing of roads in the Mexico Special District of the North Missouri State Highway and that construction will begin soon.

The work of grading and installing culverts on the Capital Highway, from Hannibal to Jefferson City, is practically completed and the road will soon be hard-surfaced. Several forces of workmen are at present working on the stretch of road from Fulton to Jefferson City.

ART AND THE WAR

Along with the progress which the war has stimulated in military and medical sciences and invention, has come a renewed interest in art. All great wars of the past have produced great pictures.

The Napoleonic wars are represented by battle-pieces depicting Napoleon as the hero, usually mounted on a prancing white horse, with the spotlight on horse and rider; the French Revolution caused the growth of classicism in art, because the French people at that time were hoping to found a republic such as existed in classical times in Greece and Rome; and our own American Revolution produced our first truly American historical painter, John Trumbull, who left us his record of the Revolution in form of such battle-scenes as "The Battle of Bunker Hill," "The Battle of Trenton" and "The Death of Montgomery."

The government recently showed its appreciation of the artist, when it sent a painter in oils to reproduce cloud effects and changing atmospheric conditions on the voyage of the seaplane fleet across the Atlantic. This, however, is not the only kind of painting which has resulted from the present world war.

During the war many artists were employed in the air service and in the coastal survey and camouflage departments. Beside the actual work connected with the war, many war pictures have been painted by English,

French and American artists, and many more such pictures will be painted in the future.

It will be interesting to see what kind of pictures the war inspired. To judge from the paintings which have already been exhibited, the artist of the present is concerned with an accurate portrayal of events and scenes connected with the war.

Whatever the art of the future may be, one thing is certain, the old fashioned battle-picture which glorifies the hero and places him in the cen-

"DOGS HAVE RIGHT-OF-WAY"

Illinois Visitor Says Canines Are Too Plentiful Here.

That Columbians are not the only persons noticing the number of dogs running around the city is shown by the remark made by a tourist yesterday.

Touring cars from Oregon, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Kentucky stopped here for a few hours. One Illinois man spoke of the beauty of Columbia, but said he thought Columbia had more mean looking dogs than any other city he had passed through. He said the dogs seem to have the right-of-way on the sidewalk as his progress was disputed twice within an hour, once by a shepherd and once by a bull dog.
